Re Kansas City airtel with enclosures dated 2/7/61 requesting Chicago to interview RAY BOURBON, allegedly residing at 933 North State, Chicago, Illinois, and Bureau airtel to Chicago dated 2/9/61, advising only one person in pictures furnished originally by BOURBON is still unidentified.

BORN IN TEXAS IN 1892
For the information of the New York Office, a person alleging to be RAY BOURBON, aka. RICHARD FABIEN MANN, RAE BOURBON, HAL WADDELL, and GREG WADDELL (FBI No. 1938040), who is a notorious female impersonator, called the Detroit Office in 9/60. He professed to know the defectors, , and that they were homosexuals who attended a party with him in the spring of 1960. BOURBON claimed there were other homosexuals in government who were going to defect but he could not recall their names. It was later ascertained the party in question was held in the apartment of , a civilian employee in the Office of the Secretary of the Army at  NW, Washington, D. C., in 6/60. All but one individual depicted on photographs furnished Detroit by BOURBON has been identified. BOURBON claimed this person was one known to him only as "BILL" and investigation by the Department of the Army reflects  claims this individual was brought to the party by BOURBON and allegedly introduced as his accompanist.

CG 62-5703

b7c On 2/10/61, it was ascertained that RAE BOURBON was currently appearing at the Night Life Cocktail Lounge, 933 North State, Chicago, Illinois. On the evening of 2/13/61, an attempt was made to contact BOURBON telephonically at the above club by SA [REDACTED]. However, the answering bartender stated BOURBON had been ill and probably would not be in to work that evening. SA [REDACTED] asked that BOURBON be given the message that he was a "friend of [REDACTED] (SA [REDACTED] who interviewed BOURBON in the past) in Detroit and would like to get in touch with BOURBON". On 2/14/61 and 2/15/61 a man professing to be BOURBON telephonically contacted SA [REDACTED] at the Chicago Office. He refused to wilfully agree to personal interview, alluding to the fact that he had been "shot at in Detroit" last fall, the bullet piercing the windshield of his car and just missing hitting him.

The following additional details obtained from BOURBON during the above telephone calls (exclusive of the information BOURBON stated he previously furnished agents of the Detroit Office) is being set forth for the information of the Bureau and interested offices: b7c b7c BOURBON maintains he is not acquainted personally with the individual known to him only as "BILL" who attended the party held at [REDACTED] apartment in Washington, D.C. at [REDACTED] in the spring of 1960. He denies bringing his accompanist to this party or that he brought anyone else to this party. He remembers specifically coming to the party (where pictures were taken) alone, having parked his car in the business district of Washington, D.C. and taking a taxi to [REDACTED] apartment. BOURBON repeated that the above individual (who is pictured lying on the floor with his head in the lap of the host, [REDACTED] who in turn is leaning against BOURBON) was never seen by him prior to the party or subsequent to same. He states this is the individual he previously advised agents of the Detroit Office he felt was one of the captioned subjects. The revelation of [REDACTED] having attended the party did not come to BOURBON until he saw the newspaper publicity including photographs attendant to their defection. At this time he felt sure they were two of the guests at [REDACTED] party.

Several times during the conversation held on 2/14 and 15, 1960, BOURBON was asked about the above matter and he vehemently denied taking anyone to the party where the pictures were taken. When asked about his accompanist, BOURBON stated that he employed [redacted] of Detroit during that period of time. He stated [redacted] was his accompanist from 3/60 until the summer of 1960. He described [redacted] as approximately [redacted] old, [redacted] tall, of medium build, brown hair and "lazy" as well as "stupid". His residence is in [redacted], a suburb of Detroit and his father is a retired City of Detroit [redacted] company employee. According to BOURBON, [redacted]

When asked whether he had ever taken someone to a party at [redacted] apartment, he replied "Yes, twice." The first occasion was several years ago when he first met [redacted] at the Red Skin Lounge in Washington, D. C. He took [redacted] the former partner of BOURBON in Vaudeville during the period 1922-24, to this party. The second occasion was sometime between March and the time of the party where the pictures were taken. On this occasion he did take [redacted] to a party at [redacted] apartment. BOURBON cannot give the specific date of this party, but does recall he and [redacted] were there for only a few minutes on this occasion and they left [redacted] place to attend a movie. According to BOURBON, if [redacted] had been at the party where the pictures were taken, he would certainly be in one of the pictures, since [redacted] is the type of person who would not allow himself to be "left out of such proceedings."

Concerning [redacted], BOURBON furnished the following information:

He and BOURBON are very close friends but nothing repugnant to the conventional world exists between them. BOURBON feels [redacted] is a "wonderful person". He [redacted] and almost always has a [redacted] at his Washington, D.C. apartment. Quite often [redacted] goes to New York City on weekends where he lives with [redacted] the [redacted] Company, [redacted] New York City (this [redacted] for BOURBON in the past). In addition, [redacted] lives with a [redacted] by the name of [redacted] who interned and currently is a [redacted] of [redacted] allegedly is a native [redacted] recently visiting there without any trouble with the [redacted] However, he is a naturalized citizen of the U.S.). [redacted] and [redacted] (known as [redacted] partners) [redacted] home telephone number in New York City is [redacted]

N.Y.

BOURBON recently saw [redacted] who told him [redacted] had advised he had been questioned by U.S. Government officials and almost lost his job as a civilian employee in the Office of the Secretary of the Army. He indicated to [redacted] the questions "hinged" around the fact BOURBON's piano player was a Communist. BOURBON could not explain the above but stated he had passed off the matter to [redacted] as "probably nothing" since he knew nothing about it. b7c b7c BOURBON was asked if he felt [redacted] should be employed by the Government in view of the fact that he is (according to BOURBON) [redacted] BOURBON stated [redacted] is certainly "not in anything subversive", is a very capable man and he feels that in [redacted] case he could not be compromised by representatives of a foreign government. BOURBON then said in his opinion a strong percentage of [redacted] and if all were taken out of their jobs the government would cease to operate. BOURBON was told his statement was without question ridiculous but [redacted] Government employment, he should, as his patriotic duty, make their identities known so that the possibility of the U.S. being compromised could be prevented. BOURBON admitted he was poor at remembering names and could not furnish anything concrete re the above at this time, but promised he would do so in the event such information came to his attention.

BOURBON was asked whether his true reason for not wanting to meet agents personally was because he had told certain untruths and felt a personal interview might bare the untruth. BOURBON denied this, stating he was only concerned with his personal safety and admitted he did not know who might be "after him" specifically, but felt such may be agents for the Soviet Union.

BOURBON became emotional at times during the conversations held on 2/14 and 15/61 and stated he was furnishing information to the FBI only because he considered it his patriotic duty. He repeated time and again that he feared for his own well being but could be no more specific regarding this other than set out previously in the communication. BOURBON wished that his identity be kept strictly confidential. He hesitated to give some personal history regarding himself, however, the following data was elicited:

He stated he was born in Texas in 1892 and not in 1902 as records will show. He explained that he was able to get friends to change the birth records so that he would be young enough to enter the armed services in World War II (he was not successful in this). He has a 43 year old son whose name he refused to give, stating merely the son's name is different from his own because he felt the son would be embarrassed (in his occupation which was unstated) by BOURBON's reputation as a notorious entertainer. He has been married twice. He co-starred with MAE WEST on Broadway in 1944-46 in "Katherine was Great" and again in "Diamond Lil" in 1948-49. Both shows opened at the Schubert Theater in New York City, according to BOURBON. He hopes to get one more Broadway credit to his name before he dies. In 1954 he found he had cancer and went to Mexico where he had a "Christine Jorgensen operation". BOURBON laughingly stated his reason for having the operation was different than was Christine's, in that he had wanted to save his own life. Since the operation, he has billed himself as RAE BOURBON since actually he is now bi-sexual.

From all the information available to Chicago, including that learned on 2/14 and 15/61 it is apparent BOURBON has already furnished all the information in his possession regarding the party in question, as well as the identities of individuals in attendance and continuing interviews, either personal or telephonic with BOURBON, are deemed unnecessary.

It would appear that if BOURBON did not, in fact, take his accompanist or any other person to the party in question (as he so vehemently denies doing) that [redacted] has been untruthful with the Department of the Army. It is possible the unidentified individuals was being protected by [redacted]. In addition, if credence can be given to BOURBON's statements about [redacted] it would appear [redacted] deceived his interviewers and "beat" the polygraph test on the matter of whether or not he [redacted].

Chicago is not aware of what information learned in the past re [redacted] from BOURBON has been already disseminated by the Bureau to the Department of the Army and accordingly, details of Chicago's 2/14 and 15/61 interviews are not being furnished in disseminable form.

In view of the information furnished by BOURBON re [redacted] New York City acquaintances and since the identity of one individual at the party in question has not been established, it appears the following investigation is in order:

CG 62-5703

LEADS

Will attempt through established sources to identify and search indices re [REDACTED] and [REDACTED] and advise Bureau of the results of same.

While no further inquiry in instant matter is contemplated by Chicago, UACB, it is requested Chicago be furnished results of above investigation for its information in the event of future contact of this office by BOURBON on this or other matters. It would appear the results of the above investigation may disclose whether BOURBON has been lying in instant matter, and enable this office to more accurately evaluate information from him in the future. b7c

2. (U) The following information concerning SUBJECT was developed during a background investigation conducted in 1954 to determine suitability for access to classified information:

a. [REDACTED] was rejected for military service on 11 April 1944 due to psychoneurosis described as "probable central nervous lues, disqualifying".

b. Eight former supervisors, co-workers, and associates of [REDACTED] refused to make an unqualified recommendation of SUBJECT, because of HIS effeminate characteristics; HIS use of a heavy perfume; HIS fastidious attire; and HIS questionable associates.

c. Seven associates of [REDACTED] gave HIM their unqualified recommendation for a position of trust and confidence. All of these associates characterized SUBJECT as being effeminate in HIS mannerisms, of using an objectionable perfume, and of being extremely fastidious in HIS choice of clothing; however, because of HIS long excellent work record, HIS ability to maintain confidences, and the lack of any factual derogatory information, they did not feel justified in not recommending SUBJECT for a position of trust and confidence.

e. [REDACTED] was suspected of homosexual tendencies because HE was a close friend of one [REDACTED] an admitted homosexual. SUBJECT admitted being associated with [REDACTED] since 1948. Interrogation of [REDACTED] failed to substantiate the allegations of homosexuality concerning HIM. A polygraph examination of [REDACTED] revealed no deception criteria to pertinent questions of homosexuality. [REDACTED] executed a sworn statement to the effect that HE was not and had never been a homosexual; that HE had never engaged in any homosexual acts; and that to the best of HIS knowledge, HE was not acquainted with any homosexuals.

3. (OR [REDACTED]) [REDACTED] was interviewed on 17 and 23 November 1960, concerning an allegation that William H. Martin and Bernon F. SUBJECT related that HE is not acquainted with either William H. Martin or Bernon F. Mitchell and would not even recognize photographs of these individuals, although HE did, of course, read about their defection when it was published in the newspapers. SUBJECT was certain that neither of these individuals ever attended a party in HIS apartment since HE invites only personal friends to such gatherings. [REDACTED] did not recall giving a party in HIS apartment during June 1960, nor does HE believe that HE did so; however, HE did recall having entertained friends in HIS apartment on several occasions earlier in the year. After having been shown a photograph (Inclosure 6), [REDACTED] readily recalled the occasion as having been a party which HE gave in HIS apartment in the spring of 1960 in honor of a friend, Ray Bourbon, a well-known professional singer and female impersonator, who was appearing at Nappy's, a night club located in Baltimore, Maryland. [REDACTED] is well acquainted with each of the guests at this party, with the exception of Bourbon's piano accompanist, whom HE met for the first time that evening and whose name HE could not recall. [REDACTED] is quite certain that the subject of travel to the Soviet Union was not discussed during the party, nor does HE have any reason to believe that any of the individuals attending this party are homosexuals. One other individual, who is not shown in any of the photographs, was present at this party, a [REDACTED] residing with [REDACTED]
